'Scandal' Suspends Its Season 3 Renewal After Poor Ratings The fan favorite FOX show Scandal has officially shut down after three seasons on the air. That's according to CBS entertainment president Nina Tassler, who joined Bryan G. to talk about her guest appearances on "GMA." "I talked to Ann [Rivers] this morning at 'Good Morning America' and she told me Scandal was shutting down. I have no idea whether it can be saved, but if you're Scandal fans you've loved every moment. They ended it on top, with a bang," Tassler said. "It's just a remarkable piece of work," she continued. "I can't imagine anyone who likes Scandal would be disappointed. I think it's about to go into syndication, I think it's about to happen, I can't imagine anyone who's a part of it would be let go. It seems to me like a very even-handed ending to it." Tassler was in the "GMA" studio yesterday, giving a good-bye interview to Ryan Seacrest. The former exec explained that she "gave the show very close attention." Viking S/S 2013 Many thanks to Jorg, Robert and Siegmund for the very lovely pictures from the Aislingya show.
