We are pleased to announce that in anticipation of the upcoming release of FIFA 22, we are streaming today's update live, just hours after it was made available to all game servers. Watch the livestream at 10am Pacific Time (1pm Eastern) here: FIFA 17 introduced a number of new gameplay features – most notable was the all-new FIFA Ultimate Team. This year we are planning to bring a range of new Ultimate Team features to Ultimate Team Seasons. This year will also see a big focus on player performance and player movement within Ultimate Team Seasons. Livestream: New features IMPROVED PLAYER PERFORMANCE In FIFA, players use the ball to control the game. If a player touches the ball, you can use that player, knowing their characteristics in the game. We are committed to improving the intelligence and anticipation of players to better suit the way they move, tackle, and influence the game. The most frequently used and most comfortable way to improve the movement of players is to apply physics to player models. We have applied physics to the player models in FIFA and the goalkeepers are doing something quite extraordinary. We achieved this by introducing the new out-of-box physics engine – Frostbite – that gives us the possibility to apply different types of physics in a more intelligent and intuitive way. With FIFA 22 we will be able to control with greater fidelity the ball control of players and their defence when they are in possession of the ball. The new Frostbite 3 engine makes it possible to apply different types of physics – Impact – to players, improving the physics of player collisions, control and behaviour. The new engine also allows us to fine-tune the strength and impact of player touches and controls – Impact being the most representative of this. Players will use these new tools to control the game, and the team, in a different way. This year, players will be able to use the ball as if it were a piece of clay in their hands and the virtual

About FIFA 22 FIFA 22 brings a new season of innovation to the pitch across the game modes, including a new MyPLAYER™ creation tool, the return of more additions from this year's FIFA World Cup, and an all-new real-world game engine that opens up the gameplay even more. FIFA 22 brings a new season of innovation to the pitch across the game modes, including a new MyPLAYER™ creation tool, the return of more additions from this year's FIFA World Cup, and an all-new real-world game engine that opens up the gameplay even more. What's new in FIFA 22 All NEW REAL WORLD GAME ENGINE As of FIFA 21, EA SPORTS has transitioned to a fully-integrated, real-world engine. This move marks a significant change in FIFA's gameplay, and allows us to unlock the vast creative potential of an entire sport year round. FIFA 22 brings a new season of innovation to the pitch across the game modes, including: All-new Real-world Game Engine with newly-detailed environments and gameplay enhancements The all-new move system is more realistic and physically-based. Movements will be more intelligently tracked, and the game will react to the speed, strength and acceleration of a player in different situations. This will also allow us to build a more immersive overall experience for the player. Wider Goalscapes Goalkeepers and attackers can now defend from farther out to allow better ball control and realistic defensive positioning. This will improve the pace and dynamics of gameplay on the pitch. The game will react to defenders and attackers in more realistic ways, and will show more accurate, realistic passing. There is now a deeper sense of variety and unpredictability between attackers and defenders, and long-range shooting will be improved. In-Game Manipulation One of the biggest improvements coming with this year's game is the introduction of in-game manipulation. Players now have a new Manage Ball tool to get the ball in their preferred position and angle. The more detailed environments also provide more variety for in-game manipulation. Greater Game Intelligence
