FIFA 22 includes the latest iteration of Dribbling, an improved version of Dribbling and Touch Control. By refining the Dribbling system, players can execute more than 100 different high-intensity passes, while Touch Control allows more players to interchange the ball, creating unique passes. Gone are the days where players need to rely on only strong headers to pass the ball through midair. A player's touch on the ball is now directly determined by the trajectory of a player's leg. Players are able to use the latest advancements in motion capture technology to accelerate the ball more accurately, and continue to move in the correct direction and the right speed. Players can even see whether they can accurately hit the ball out of the air, or if they can head it. FIFA 22 introduces “Skill Shots,” a special set of fan-favourite drills including FIFA Pop, FIFA Power Game, FIFA Dribble Shot and more. Players can personalise their own individual playlists to perfect their particular passing skills, as well as create their own custom sequences and drills. This year, FIFA gives players an unprecedented level of control by allowing them to play offline in the ultimate sports game. Play offline in this year’s FIFA with the new “FIFA Online Pass.” Enjoy a complete FIFA experience on your console, PC, or mobile device that lets you take on the world with up to 3 friends locally through to FIFA Live, online FIFA, and exclusive leagues. The FIFA 22 beta will take place this week at the following times: Please note, the beta will be restricted to the selected countries only, with further restrictions to be announced later.
