Q: How to get to an absolute/unrelative position in a NestedScrollView / RecyclerView? I have a RecyclerView and a NestedScrollView with a ViewPager. I'm trying to get to an absolute/unrelative position in the RecyclerView. For example : I'm in the position 5 / last item / in the bottom of the RecyclerView and I try to go to the first item (position 4) I want to go directly on item 4 without sliding to the right, I want to go to item 4 I don't want to implement onItemClickListener, I just want to scroll. I tried a lot of things : I tried to scroll directly on the position I want and it's working but when I click on an other item ( for example 3 items before the position I want ) I can still scroll and the old position is still visible. Note : I tried to handle the case where I scroll to a negative position I used getChildAt() with position and getDecoratedStart with position to : get the View to be able to scroll. When I scroll I want to get to the first View of the ViewPager ( this is also checked with the item's View ) I tried to use a helper to get the View : getViewAtPosition on the last position before the position I want ( I don't want to change the position of the ViewPager ) I tried to use another helper to get the View : getViewAtPosition after the last position before the position I want ( I don't want to change the
