A new sheet is added every day. I have a button that once clicked, it opens the newly added sheet and copies column 3 of the Master sheet, down. The destination sheet is the same name of the master sheet, with the letter "T" appended to the end. So the destination sheet would be MasterT. It works fine, but the only problem is that it pastes to the T sheet, which is not the intended use. So I need the destination sheet to just say Master, then once the data is copied and pasted to the destination sheet, it goes to the next blank column. Here's the code I have so far:

```
Sub NewSheet()
    Dim wsSrc As Worksheet
    Dim wsDest As Worksheet
    Dim intRow As Integer
    Dim intCell As Integer
    Dim strSource As String Set wsSrc = ActiveWorkbook.Sheets("Master")
    strSource = wsSrc.Range("A2").Value Set wsDest = ActiveWorkbook.Sheets("MasterT")
    intRow = 1
    intCell = 1
    Application.ScreenUpdating = False
    Application.DisplayAlerts = False wsDest.

"Putin Run" Track People are running from Trump, they're running from all of the turmoil of this time. They're running from war, they're running from job loss, they're running from a hurricane, they're running from a fight, they're running from falling crime, they're running from a corrupt government. People are really running. Even if you believe in a coming apocalypse and even if you believe in hope and change, I want to live to see the day when it's no longer relevant. I want to live to see the day when everyone in this country is a part of a partnership and we help one another out. I want to live to see the day when things are fair and we take care of each other. I want to live to see a day when everyone pulls together and the American dream is actually for everyone, not just those who are born with the best ability to be fortunate. I want to live to see the day when the middle class is actually respected as a real profession and not just used to squeeze blood out of a stone. I want to live to see the day where the will of the people is put into place to make the government work for you. I want to live to see the day when we aren't going to war with other countries, and it's just going to be because we're getting in the middle of a civil war in our own country. Yes we all live by faith. We all live by faith. Yes we all live by faith. We all live by faith. We all live by faith. Zombie Shooter: Ares Virus is the first independent shooter game by Taiwan-based indie publisher, NewSonic for the Wii game console. The game is centered around high-flying, shambling video game zombies and the protagonist Arma, and is rated E (Everyone). Plot The game is set in the year 2093 in the near future where a biological weapon has been unleashed by a terrorist group called the "Ares Virus", which has brought an outbreak of flesh-eating zombies to the capital of a middle-eastern country, spawning what will later turn into chaos and a worldwide epidemic. The game's protagonist, Arma Danning, is a high-tech soldier that has been brought in to help lead a counter-attack force, but is soon forced to walk that thin line between killing zombies and letting them live. As he goes on, he becomes more and more despondent with his mission and eventually decides to quit and walk away. However, he soon finds himself being confronted by mysterious creatures called "Gratch", which turn out to be completely flesh-eating. Characters References Nintendo3DS.
