Juan Macias VALENCIA, Defendant-Appellant. No. 94-50554. United States Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit. May 29, 1995. Before: NORRIS, REINHARDT, and FERNANDEZ, Circuit Judges. ORDER 1](#) In this case, we are asked whether the district court properly calculated the amount of cocaine at issue in sentencing a defendant under 21 U.S.C. Sec. 841(b)(1)(C), which mandates a minimum five year sentence for an offense involving five to fifty grams of cocaine base. The district court concluded that the entire quantity was relevant conduct in calculating Valencia's sentence. We affirm the conviction but reverse and remand the sentence. 2 Valencia was arrested at the San Diego airport for bringing more than 500 grams of cocaine into the country. While searching his briefcase, the police found both a piece of paper with a list of names and two false identifications. At the airport police gave the seized materials to Customs Service investigators. Customs Service border patrol agent Harvey, after reviewing the seized materials, determined that the list, known as a "roof sheet," was indicative of drug smuggling. 3 Later that day, Customs Service investigation officer Gelber met up with agent Harvey. Based on what Harvey had told Gelber, Gelber determined that Valencia was transporting cocaine
