"The most standout feature of the game is the massive amount of content. You'll complete in-game quests, clear dungeons, explore the world, and embark on a multitude of other tasks. If it's quantity that matters to you, this game is the one for you." - Game Reviewer, Developer Diary "Elden Ring is one of the few games where I have an immense sense of attachment. It's the type of game that is harder to abandon after you've got to it to the end than it is to get to the end." - Touch Arcade "It's an unusual blend of action and role-playing, where you're out to conquer but more interested in the background story. This game is a mix of System Shock and Fallout, with elements of Ocarina of Time, Shadow of the Colossus, and The Witcher." - Indie Game of the Week "The voice acting of the characters is great, with some of them being really memorable.

The battles are intense, but the enemy AI is extremely simple so they never become an issue. The unique style of the combat system and the sound effects are well done. The soundtrack and music are really strong. Overall, I feel the originality of the battle system and the gameplay gave this game a special charm." - Nintendo Life "The combat system is fun and efficient as you have to move around quickly to dodge incoming attacks. The graphics and the visual effect are great and everything is interactive, which makes the game fun. The relationship system has an understandable interface. The game overall is a must have game for those who enjoy the fantasy genre." - RPG Site "All of the main features that I have mentioned about this game are worth mentioning, but the most impressive feature is the fact that the story isn't even finished yet. As you go through the game, you'll become more and more invested in its lore." - Games Radar "If you're looking for a game that gives you a firm grasp of the Elden Ring lore, then Elisen Ring is for you." - NintIndie "Now that The Elisen Ring is on Nintendo Switch, you can play this game anywhere in the world." - Nintindie " bff6bb2d33

The invention relates to a device for discharging liquid from a container which is divided into a discharge chamber and a reservoir chamber, with a feed pipe which is connected to a feed duct with a drain valve, and with an outlet pipe which is connected to the discharge chamber and which is connected to a pipe of an air hosing system. In the case of known automatic spray cleaners, the delivery of the cleaning fluid into the handpiece is effected with compressed air, the compressed air being normally drawn in from the outside through a suction tube, also referred to as a hosing, by means of an air motor. A problem which then arises is that, depending on the design, only a relatively small volume of cleaning fluid can be delivered. It is therefore often necessary to repeatedly turn the air motor in small amounts in order to obtain a satisfactory cleaning action. Such repeated turning of the air motor is often very disruptive for the operator.

When she was 12, she was struck by a car and suffered six broken ribs, a shattered collarbone and a broken leg. "I had no friends. I had an emotional and physical disability," she said. Eleven years later, when she was 33, Marcia ran for a seat on the Boulder City Municipal Council. Elected, she served two years. The majority of people with disabilities grow up in their families — families with adults without disabilities who provide support and guidance for their children with disabilities. In June, however, surveys will be released that show that fewer and fewer children with disabilities are being raised by their parents. Pew Research released a national study in November that estimated that the number of children with disabilities living with adults over age 50 (ages 17 and older) has increased dramatically during the last 10 years. In 1999, that number was about 1.5 million. But by 2010, that number had grown to 2.3 million. The vast majority of those children (80 percent in 2007 and 81 percent in 2009) were living with an adult other than their parents, the study said. The study found that the number of children living in group homes — or in structured residential facilities — had increased from 2.
