Category.. Criminal Minds by CBS is a show about FBI profilers, including.Application of the additive salvage model: a framework to predict the performance of port facilities in evolving distribution scenarios. Extreme climatic conditions can have a significant effect on the reliability, safety and effectiveness of port facilities. Previous studies have examined the impacts of climatic conditions and have incorporated additive measures of safety assessment into port development in the past. However, these studies are generally based on the original design of a port and do not allow for any changes made to the existing port facilities to become effectively factored into the new design. This research proposes a methodology to allow for the incorporation of future modifications and changes that become necessary to accommodate evolving port facilities and creates a way to effectively predict the impacts of extreme climatic conditions. The proposed methodology incorporates a number of recent advancements to port facilities and climate change including better understanding of the interaction between climate and water, greater availability of data on storm surge, flood and tidal surges and technological advances to weather systems. The proposed methodology allows for probabilistic assessment of the impacts of extreme climatic conditions and the uncertainty and variability that will be present for any future design. The methodology proposed provides insight into design modifications, level of need for new facilities, construction costs and potential technology limitations.Q: Need an immediate workaround for a bug I am trying to achieve a simple login for my webapp using Hibernate and JSF 2.0. I have followed the exact steps in the hibernate 3 tutorial. The problem is, after the user logs in, the browser can still access the stateless protected pages of my webapp, thus giving to the user access to the contents of the password protected areas. Is there any way to make the authentication process not executed until the user clicks on the "Submit" button after entering his/her
